

PASTURE AND PLENTY

MARCH 14, 2022 | OMNIVORE

HOORAY, IT'S MONDAY!

We're always excited to share our menus, but this week's seems particularly timely, friends. Our Ready-to-Eat meal – slow roasted pork with cider braised cabbage, apples and dried fruit – is inspired by a recipe from Olia Hercules' fabulous cookbook, Summer Kitchens: Recipes and Reminiscences from Every Corner of Ukraine. Like many of you, Ukraine weighs heavily on our minds. We're working on fundraising efforts and urge you to join us!

② READY-TO-EAT

slow roasted pork with cider braised cabbage

Preheat oven to 400°F. Place pork on a foil-lined baking sheet, separated into large chunks, and roast in the oven until heated through (the internal temperature of the pork should read 165°F) and the edges are starting to brown and crisp up, about 10 to 12 minutes.

While the pork is in the oven, reheat the braised cabbage in a large sauté pan over medium heat. Once hot, add the egg noodles and cook for a few minutes, tossing or stirring the noodles into the hot, braised cabbage.

Plate the braised cabbage and noodles and top with the roasted pork. Enjoy your meal! And maybe use this Ukrainian dish to inspire some quality dinner talk about Ukraine, its people and ways to support them in their struggles.
